Hi Ivan,

As I mentioned to you during our meeting, EPA has not received the final 319 allocations for FY15 and EPA and NOAA will be making the final decision on approvability of Oregon's CZARA program on January 30, 2015. Perhaps you can issue the 319 request for initial proposals without including an estimate of the amount of funding to be awarded.

Greet to see you again.

Jayne

Jayne,

I hope you are doing well.

Greetings.

During our Eastern Oregon 319 project tour last week, I asked Martha for an update on 2015 319 funding.

I recall Martha recommending I voice the question to you for an update.

We are at the point of releasing of 319 RFP for 2015.

Our partners are awaiting our RFP and for important planning it is crucial we provide them with as much information as we can.

If possible could you please provide us an update on the Oregon 2015 319 funding.

Thank you very much

Ivan

Subject: Update: 319 funding for FY2013

Hi folks:

Just providing an update to the extent possible regarding 319 funding for 2013. We are operating under the current Continuing Resolution extending to March 27. Under this CR we are authorized to award only up to 75% of the amount of the state 319 allocations for last year (FY12). This amounts to the following under this current FY13 CR guidance:

AK: $1,908,000 (FY12) X .75 = $1,431,000
Idaho: $1,936,000 (FY12) X .75 = $1,452,000
Oregon: $2,172,000 (FY12) X .75 = $1,629,000
Washington: $3,009,000 (FY12) X .75 = $2,256,800

We've received further guidance from HQ regarding the need to exercise caution in the award of 319 funds pending the outcome of the budget situation for FY13. Once we have further budget resolution for FY13 (and EPA's FY13 operating plan), and then the final state 319 allocation chart, we are uncertain what the final FY13 allocations will actually be. Although for planning purposes, funding at last year 2012 levels would be a best-cast scenario. There should be flexibility in dealing with changes to submitted applications if available funding ends up below the application/workplan amount.

But as in years past we cannot award state 319 funds until after receiving the annual NPS progress reports, completing the annual progress reviews, and reviewing the workplans and submitted 319 applications. So encourage submitting the annual NPS progress reports (if not already) and draft workplans as soon as possible in order to expedite the processing of the grant applications after we know what the final state 2013 allocations are.

I will forward the 2013 state allocation chart as soon as it becomes available-
